

MAKE YOUR OWN:

wild and woolly sheep

You won't need any fancy supplies to get started on this activity – simply raid your bathroom cabinet!

This soft and appealing merino is a great project for kids who like to craft with glue and who don't mind getting a bit sticky. Be prepared for children sporting wild and woolly fingertips by the time you're finished!

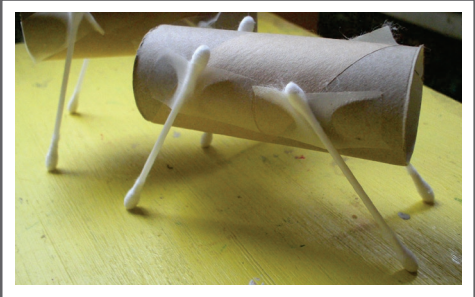

YOU WILL NEED:

- toilet paper roll
- cotton wool balls
- cotton buds (q-tips)
- white glue
- tissue paper
- pipecleaner
- tape

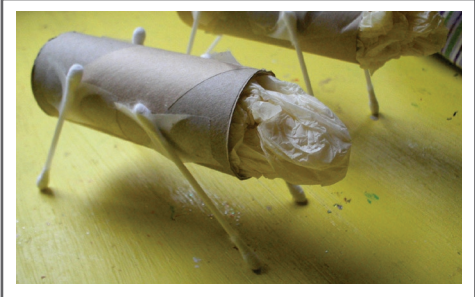

DIRECTIONS

- 1 Tape cotton buds (q-tips) on to the cardboard roll to make legs.
- 2 Scrunch up some tissue paper and stuff it into one end of the roll to make a head.
- 3 Pour some white glue into a shallow dish. Then dip the cotton wool balls into the glue and stick them all around the cardboard roll.
- 4 Keep sticking until your sheep is woolly all over.
- 5 Add some eyes (we glued black paper circles onto the tissue paper) and make some horns by twisting small pieces of pipecleaner around your finger. Glue the horns onto the sheep using white glue.
